If Dean of Students overturns the finding of no violation, the case is sent to Student Conduct. If Respondent accepts the sanctions and Complainant does not appeal, the case will be closed.

If Respondent requests a Review Board hearing, the evidence will be heard from the beginning. Complainant and Respondent will each be informed of decision.

Either Party may appeal the Review Board’s decision to the Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs, whose decision is final.

If Respondent or Complainant may appeal sanctions. Student Conduct Review Boards hear appeals of suspension or dismissal.

If no violation of policy is found, Complainant may appeal to Dean of Students.

If violation of policy is found, Student Conduct will hold administrative meetings with Respondent and Complainant and then decide sanctions.

If Respondent accepts the sanctions and Complainant does not appeal, the case will be closed.

If Respondent or Complainant may appeal sanctions. Student Conduct Review Boards hear appeals of suspension or dismissal.

If Respondent requests a Review Board hearing, the evidence will be heard from the beginning. Complainant and Respondent will each be informed of decision.

Either Party may appeal the Review Board’s decision to the Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs, whose decision is final.

If Respondent accepts the sanctions and Complainant does not appeal, the case will be closed.

If Respondent requests a Review Board hearing, the evidence will be heard from the beginning. Complainant and Respondent will each be informed of decision.

Either Party may appeal the Review Board’s decision to the Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs, whose decision is final.

If no violation of policy is found, Complainant may appeal to Dean of Students.

If violation of policy is found, Student Conduct will hold administrative meetings with Respondent and Complainant and then decide sanctions.

If Respondent accepts the sanctions and Complainant does not appeal, the case will be closed.